Applications open for musical opportunities with New Mexico Music Commission grant funding

Santa Fe, NM – The New Mexico Music Commission's "Music in the Community" Grant Program strikes a new chord for communities across the state, amplifying opportunities for musical appreciation and inspiring community engagement through the power of music. Currently accepting applications for the 2026-27 fiscal year, the grant supports musical performances, education, and activities across the state.

"Continuing the grant program is vital for fostering music engagement and education across New Mexico, especially in our rural, tribal, and underserved communities," said Music Commission Chair Carlos Medina. "Our hope is that these grants will empower organizations to create accessible opportunities that inspire future generations, cultivate appreciation for diverse musical traditions, and enhance community connections through the arts. We are grateful to Governor Michelle Lujan-Grisham, our legislators, and the taxpayers of the great State of New Mexico for their support and trust."

The Music in the Community Grant Program serves communities all over New Mexico, including rural, tribal, veteran, disability, and other underserved people through funding that supports new or existing music engagement, education, or performances.

The funding will support a variety of programs, including performances in local venues or festivals, lectures or presentations about music-focused topics, instrument demonstrations, workshops, exhibitions, or other similar projects that engage people regardless of age.

The application period is open through June 13, 2026. Selected organizations will receive $2,500, paid on a reimbursement basis after program activities are completed. For more information about the 2026-27 grant requirements, and to apply, visit www.nmmusic.org/grants or contact Katherine Bruell, New Mexico Music Commission Administrator, at katherine.bruell@dca.nm.gov or 505-487-0519.

During the 2025-26 grant cycle, 11 organizations throughout the state offered a variety of unique programs that were funded by the grant. Horizons of Albuquerque expanded their summer guitar program for 4th-12th graders to a year-round initiative. Eastern New Mexico University used funding to host educational workshops for film students who produced a concert film of Robert Mirabal's campus performance. The Cibola Arts Council used the grant for their annual Day of the Dead Celebration as well as a Bayanihan, Filipino Cultural Extravaganza. A full list of recipients and their projects can be found online.

About New Mexico Music Commission (NMMC)
NMMC, a governor-appointed body, protects, promotes, and preserves the musical traditions of New Mexico. The Commission consists of a cross-section of New Mexico citizens representing all facets of the state's unique and diverse music industry. NMMC is administered by New Mexico Arts, the state's federally recognized arts agency and a division of the Department of Cultural Affairs.

Mobile museum brings "The Arts of Democracy" to community events throughout New Mexico

The Wonders on Wheels Mobile Museum, a division of the New Mexico Department of Cultural Affairs, is touring the state this month showcasing the new exhibit, "The Arts of Democracy in New Mexico." The exhibition honors the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence and highlights ideals of freedom and self-government and how they have been expressed in art forms, particularly in New Mexico.

What: Visitors can see the exhibit and participate in hands-on learning activities at various community venues throughout the state—for free!

When & Where:

Thurs., May 28, 10 a.m. – 4 p.m., Eastern New Mexico Univ. Adult Education, 52 University Blvd., Roswell

Fri., May 29, 10 a.m. – 2 p.m., Artesia Public Library, 205 W. Quay Ave., Artesia

Sat., May 30, 10 a.m. – 2 p.m., Hobbs Public Library, 509 N. Shipp St., Hobbs

Why: Wonders on Wheels serves all 33 counties in New Mexico annually, bringing arts, culture, history, and science exhibits and curriculum-based programming to fairs, festivals, public libraries, and schools. The goal is to make learning fun and accessible to people of all ages throughout the state. "The Arts of Democracy in New Mexico" is supported in part by New Mexico Arts, a division of the Department of Cultural Affairs, and by the National Endowment for the Arts.
